

Next Generation Sunshine State Standards – Social Studies, 2021

History

The Sunshine State Standards were first approved by the State Board of Education in 1996 as a means of identifying academic expectations for student achievement in Florida. The Next Generation Sunshine State Standards (NGSSS) for Social Studies were approved by the State Board of Education in December 2008. These standards included content aligned with the following strands: American History, Geography, Economics, Civics and Government, World History, and Humanities. Psychology and Sociology strands were adopted in 2013 and a Financial Literacy strand was adopted in 2014. The revised Civics and Government standards and new Holocaust Education standards were driven by legislative action and presented for adoption to the State Board of Education in July 2021.

Revised Civics and Government Standards

House Bill 807 (2019) required the Florida Department of Education (FDOE) to complete a review of the statewide civics education course standards.

An online review system was used to specifically review Civics and Government standards. This system utilized the same rubric originally employed for the highly successful Executive Order 19-32 English Language Arts and Mathematics standards review in 2019. The K-5, 6-8 and 9-12 standards review forms enabled reviewers to thoroughly evaluate and comment on each standard, as well as the option to provide an overall comment for each grade cluster of standards. The review opened to the public on June 5, 2020 and closed on August 5, 2020.

Data from the online reviews were collected and analyzed after the review closed on August 5, 2020. The data included quantitative and qualitative ratings for each individual benchmark and overall comments for the K-5, 6-8 and 9-12 review forms. The FDOE convened a workgroup of Florida experts to propose revised standards that reflect the themes from the review of the statewide civics education standards review.

The revised Civics and Government (CG) standards reflect the following priorities for K-12 Civics and Government teaching and learning in Florida schools.

- Students study primary source documents to understand the philosophical underpinnings of the American Republic and the root cause of American exceptionalism.
- Students compare the success of the United States and the success or failure of other nations' governing philosophies to evaluate their past, present and likely future effects.
- Students have a sense of civic pride and participate regularly in all levels of government.
- Students reflect upon United States civic history, so they understand their rights and responsibilities as citizens, including the process of advocating properly with government officials.

New Holocaust Education Standards

House Bill 1213 (2020) directed the FDOE to prepare and offer standards for Holocaust Education. A new strand of content standards was added to social studies for Holocaust Education.

To develop content-rich and developmentally appropriate Holocaust Education standards for Florida's students, the FDOE worked closely with the Commissioner of Education's Task Force on Holocaust Education and Florida teachers. Additionally, the FDOE received and considered comments from state and nationally recognized Holocaust educational organizations, Florida educators, school administrators, representatives of the Florida College System and state universities, business and industry leaders and the public.

BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK
SS.8.FL.2.1	Explain why when deciding what to buy, consumers may choose to gather information from a variety of sources. Describe how the quality and usefulness of information

	provided by sources can vary greatly from source to source. Explain that, while many sources provide valuable information, other sources provide information that is deliberately misleading. Remarks and Examples: Gather information for an electronic good from sources such as manufacturers' websites, retail websites, and consumer review websites. Explain what information is most helpful in making their decision. Search the Internet and print materials and identify deceptive selling practices.

Standard 3: Saving
BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK
SS.8.FL.3.1	Explain that banks and other financial institutions loan funds received from depositors to borrowers and that part of the interest received from these loans is used to pay interest to depositors for the use of their money. Remarks and Examples: Draw and label a diagram showing the role that financial institutions play in channeling funds from savers to borrowers. Conduct research into the interest rate paid on savings and charged for loans by financial institutions in their community and create a classroom bulletin board summarizing their findings.
SS.8.FL.3.2	Explain that, for the saver, an interest rate is the price a financial institution pays for using a saver's money and is normally expressed as an annual percentage of the amount saved. Remarks and Examples: Define an interest rate as the price paid for using someone else's money, expressed as a percentage of the amount saved.
SS.8.FL.3.3	Discuss that interest rates paid on savings and charged on loans, like all prices, are determined in a market. Remarks and Examples: Explain why banks that experience an increase in the number of people who want loans may decide to pay higher interest rates on deposits.
SS.8.FL.3.4	Explain that, when interest rates increase, people earn more on their savings and their savings grow more quickly. Remarks and Examples: Calculate the total amount of interest earned on two certificates of deposit—one with a higher rate of interest than the other—and explain how the certificate of deposit with the higher interest rate can help a saver reach his or her savings goal faster.

SS.8.FL.3.5	Identify principal as the initial amount of money upon which interest is paid. Remarks and Examples: Differentiate between principal and interest.
SS.8.FL.3.6	Identify the value of a person's savings in the future as determined by the amount saved and the interest rate. Explain why the earlier people begin to save, the more savings they will be able to accumulate, all other things equal, as a result of the power of compound interest. Remarks and Examples: Use the Rule of 72 to determine the number of years it will take for their savings to double in value. Using a formula for compound interest, calculate how much two different savers, one who starts to save at age 21 and one who starts to save at age 35, will have at retirement.
SS.8.FL.3.7	Discuss the different reasons that people save money, including large purchases (such as higher education, autos, and homes), retirement, and unexpected events. Discuss how people's tastes and preferences influence their choice of how much to save and for what to save. Remarks and Examples: Write a short story comparing the savings choices of a young college graduate to those of a married couple who recently celebrated their 40th birthdays and who have two children.
SS.8.FL.3.8	Explain that, to assure savers that their deposits are safe from bank failures, federal agencies guarantee depositors' savings in most commercial banks, savings banks, and savings associations up to a set limit. Remarks and Examples: Identify the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) and the National Credit Union Administration (NCUA) as the government agencies responsible for insuring depositors' savings and state the limit of FDIC and NCUA coverage. Explain why the bank-run scene in the movie It's a Wonderful Life , for example, is less likely to occur in today's world of insured banks.

Standard 4: Using Credit
BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK
SS.8.FL.4.1	Explain that people who apply for loans are told what the interest rate on the loan will be. An interest rate is the price of using someone else's money expressed as an annual percentage of the loan principal. Remarks and Examples: Explain that repayment of a loan includes repayment of the principal plus the interest charged. Compute the interest rate when given a principal and an amount of interest. Compute the amount of interest when given the loan principal and the interest rate.
SS.8.FL.4.2	Identify a credit card purchase as a loan from the financial institution that issued the card. Explain that credit card interest rates tend to be higher than rates for other loans. In addition, financial institutions may charge significant fees related to a credit card and its use. Remarks and Examples: Examine a credit card statement and identify the interest rate and fees charged.
SS.8.FL.4.3	Examine the fact that borrowers who use credit cards for purchases and who do not pay the full balance when it is due pay much higher costs for their purchases because interest is charged monthly. Explain how a credit card user can avoid interest charges by paying the entire balance within the grace period specified by the financial institution. Remarks and Examples: For an expensive good purchased using credit, find the total interest paid and the amount still owed after one year when only the minimum payment is made each month. Give advice to a friend explaining what happens to the total cost of borrowing on a credit card when only the minimum payment is made each month.

SS.8.FL.4.4	Explain that lenders charge different interest rates based on the risk of nonpayment by borrowers. Describe why the higher the risk of nonpayment, the higher the interest rate charged by financial institutions, and the lower the risk of nonpayment, the lower the interest rate charged. Remarks and Examples: As a banker, decide for each of three potential borrowers with different credit backgrounds whether to extend credit, and if so, what the interest rate should be. Write a decision letter to the borrower justifying the banker's decision.

SS.8.FL.5.2	Calculate the amount of interest income received from depositing a certain amount of money in a bank account paying 1 percent per year and from owning a bond paying 5 percent per year in order to analyze that interest is received from money deposited in bank accounts as well as by owning a corporate or government bond or making a loan.
SS.8.FL.5.3	Discuss that when people buy corporate stock, they are purchasing ownership shares in a business that if the business is profitable, they will expect to receive income in the form of dividends and/or from the increase in the stock's value, that the increase in the value of an asset (like a stock) is called a capital gain, and if the business is not profitable, investors could lose the money they have invested. Remarks and Examples: Determine the amount of dividends paid from a selected stock and how much the price of the stock has appreciated or depreciated over the year.
SS.8.FL.5.4	Explain that the price of a financial asset is determined by the interaction of buyers and sellers in a financial market. Remarks and Examples: Explain why the price of a stock might change if more individuals decide to purchase the stock. Explain why the price of a stock might change if more companies issue new shares of stock to raise new investment funds.
SS.8.FL.5.5	Explain that the rate of return earned from investments will vary according to the amount of risk and, in general, a trade-off exists between the security of an investment and its expected rate of return. Remarks and Examples: Compare rates of return of a variety of different investments and speculate on the amount of risk each of the investments entails.

Standard 6: Protecting and Insuring

BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK

SS.8.FL.6.2	Identify insurance as a product that allows people to pay a fee (called a premium) now to transfer the costs of a potential loss to a third party. Remarks and Examples: Explain why homeowners buy flood insurance for $300 a year when the likelihood of a flood in their area is extremely low.
SS.8.FL.6.3	Describe how a person may self-insure by accepting a risk and saving money on a regular basis to cover a potential loss.

	Remarks and Examples: List examples of potential events and costs against which people might self-insure.
SS.8.FL.6.4	Discuss why insurance policies that guarantee higher levels of payment in the event of a loss (coverage) have higher prices. Remarks and Examples: Explain how a deductible affects the payout on an auto insurance claim, and how the individual's choice of deductible affects the price of the policy at the time it is purchased.
SS.8.FL.6.5	Discuss that insurance companies charge higher premiums to cover higher-risk individuals and events because the risk of monetary loss is greater for these individuals and events. Remarks and Examples: Explain why drivers who receive repeated speeding tickets will see their insurance premiums increase.
SS.8.FL.6.6	Explain that individuals can choose to accept some risk, to take steps to avoid or reduce risk, or to transfer risk to others through the purchase of insurance and that each option has different costs and benefits. Remarks and Examples: Identify ways in which an automobile driver can avoid, reduce, or transfer the risk of being in an automobile accident. Explain why people may prefer to purchase insurance against fire in their apartment, but self-insure to handle the cost of tooth cavities.
SS.8.FL.6.7	Evaluate social networking sites and other online activity from the perspective of making individuals vulnerable to harm caused by identity theft or misuse of their personal information. Remarks and Examples: Identify ways that identity thieves can obtain someone's personal information. List actions an individual can take to protect personal information.

SS.912.FL.2.4	Describe ways that consumers may be influenced by how the price of a good is expressed. Remarks and Examples: Write a paragraph explaining why a store might advertise the price of a flat screen TV expressed as an amount per day or week rather than the actual full price. List different ways retailers use to express the prices
SS.912.FL.2.5	Discuss ways people incur costs and realize benefits when searching for information related to their purchases of goods and services and describe how the amount of information people should gather depends on the benefits and costs of the information. Remarks and Examples: Write a newspaper column, "Tips for Consumers," explaining why searching for information may be more important when purchasing expensive, durable goods and services than for inexpensive and nondurable products. 	Remarks and Examples: Identify instances in their lives where they decided to buy something immediately and then wished they had instead saved the money for future purchases.
SS.912.FL.3.2	Examine the ideas that inflation reduces the value of money, including savings, that the real interest rate expresses the rate of return on savings, taking into account the effect of inflation and that the real interest rate is calculated as the nominal interest rate minus the rate of inflation. Remarks and Examples: Explain why savers expect a higher nominal interest rate when inflation is expected to be high.
SS.912.FL.3.3	Compare the difference between the nominal interest rate which tells savers how the dollar value of their savings or investments will grow, and the real interest rate which tells savers how the purchasing power of their savings or investments will grow. Remarks and Examples: Given the nominal interest rate and the rate of inflation over the course of one year, explain what will happen to the purchasing power of savings.
SS.912.FL.3.4	Describe ways that money received (or paid) in the future can be compared to money held today by discounting the future value based on the rate of interest. Remarks and Examples: Explain why matches of retirement savings by employers substantially change the incentives for employees to save. Explain why having employees "opt out" of savings programs results in a higher level of saving than having them "opt in."

Standard 4: Using Credit

BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK
SS.912.FL.4.1	Discuss ways that consumers can compare the cost of credit by using the annual percentage rate (APR), initial fees charged, and fees charged for late payment or missed payments. Remarks and Examples: Use the APR, initial fees, late fees, nonpayment fees, and other relevant information to compare the cost of credit from various sources for the purchase of a product.
SS.912.FL.4.10	Analyze the fact that, in extreme cases, bankruptcy may be an option for consumers who are unable to repay debt, and although bankruptcy provides some benefits, filing for bankruptcy also entails considerable costs, including having notice of the bankruptcy appear on a consumer's credit report for up to 10 years.

	Remarks and Examples: Investigate the costs of bankruptcy by examining the bankruptcy laws in Florida.
SS.912.FL.4.11	Explain that people often apply for a mortgage to purchase a home and identify a mortgage is a type of loan that is secured by real estate property as collateral. Remarks and Examples: Predict what might happen should a homeowner fail to make his or her mortgage payments.

SS.912.FL.4.3	Explain that loans can be unsecured or secured with collateral, that collateral is a piece of property that can be sold by the lender to recover all or part of a loan if the borrower fails to repay. Explain why secured loans are viewed as having less risk and why lenders charge a lower interest rate than they charge for unsecured loans.
SS.912.FL.4.4	Describe why people often make a cash payment to the seller of a good—called a down payment—in order to reduce the amount they need to borrow. Describe why lenders may consider loans made with a down payment to have less risk because the down payment gives the borrower some equity or ownership right away and why these loans may carry a lower interest rate. Remarks and Examples: Explain how a down payment reduces the total amount financed and why this reduces the monthly payment and/or the length of the loan. Explain why a borrower who has made a down payment has an incentive to repay a loan or make payments on time.
SS.912.FL.4.5	Explain that lenders make credit decisions based in part on consumer payment history. Credit bureaus record borrowers' credit and payment histories and provide that information to lenders in credit reports. Remarks and Examples: List factors from an individual's credit history or credit application that may cause a lender to deny credit. Explain what credit bureaus do.
SS.912.FL.4.6	Discuss that lenders can pay to receive a borrower's credit score from a credit bureau and that a credit score is a number based on information in a credit report and assesses a person's credit risk. Remarks and Examples: Explain the concept of a credit score and what it indicates about a borrower. Explain why certain factors, such as having many credit cards with large lines of credit and large balances, might hurt a credit score.
SS.912.FL.4.7	Describe that, in addition to assessing a person's credit risk, credit reports and scores may be requested and used by employers in hiring decisions, landlords in deciding whether to rent apartments, and insurance companies in charging premiums. Remarks and Examples: Provide two examples of how having a good credit score can benefit a person financially. Explain why employers find it useful to hire someone with a better credit score.

SS.912.FL.4.8	Examine the fact that failure to repay a loan has significant consequences for borrowers such as negative entries on their credit report, repossession of property (collateral), garnishment of wages, and the inability to obtain loans in the future. Remarks and Examples: Write a scenario about the future opportunities a person can lose by failing to repay loans as agreed.
SS.912.FL.4.9	Explain that consumers who have difficulty repaying debt can seek assistance through credit counseling services and by negotiating directly with creditors. Explain that consumers who have difficulty repaying debt can seek assistance through credit counseling services and by negotiating directly with creditors. Remarks and Examples: Identify the costs and benefits associated with using different credit counseling services.

Standard 5: Financial Investing

BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK
SS.912.FL.5.1	Compare the ways that federal, state, and local tax rates vary on different types of investments. Describe the taxes effect on the after-tax rate of return of an investment. Remarks and Examples: Given tax rates and inflation rates, calculate the real, after-tax rates of return for groups of stocks and bonds.
SS.912.FL.5.10	Explain that people vary in their willingness to take risks because the willingness to take risks depends on factors such as personality, income, and family situation. Remarks and Examples: Explain how the portfolio of a retiree might differ from that of a young, single person.
SS.912.FL.5.11	Describe why an economic role for a government may exist if individuals do not have complete information about the nature of alternative investments or access to competitive financial markets. Remarks and Examples: Explain why it is important for individuals to have accurate information about a company's sales and profits when investing in that company.
SS.912.FL.5.12	Compare the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC), the Federal Reserve, and other government agencies that regulate financial markets. Remarks and Examples: Conduct research to learn about the SEC or the Federal Reserve and identify their roles in regulating financial markets.
SS.912.FL.5.2	Explain how the expenses of buying, selling, and holding financial assets decrease the rate of return from an investment. Remarks and Examples: Identify and compare the administrative costs of several mutual funds and estimate the differences in the total amount accumulated after 10 years for each mutual fund, assuming identical market performance.
SS.912.FL.5.3	Discuss that buyers and sellers in financial markets determine prices of financial assets and therefore influence the rates of return on those assets. Remarks and Examples: Predict what will happen to the price and rate of return on a bond if buyers believe that the bond has increased in risk.
SS.912.FL.5.4	Explain that an investment with greater risk than another investment will commonly have a lower market price, and therefore a higher rate of return, than the other investment. Remarks and Examples: Explain why the expected rate of return on a "blue chip" stock is likely to be lower than that of an Internet start-up company.
SS.912.FL.5.5	Explain that shorter-term investments will likely have lower rates of return than longer-term investments.

	Remarks and Examples: Explain how markets will determine the rates of return for two bonds if one is a long-term bond and the other a short-term bond, assuming each bond pays the same rate of interest.
SS.912.FL.5.6	Describe how diversifying investments in different types of financial assets can lower investment risk. Remarks and Examples: Compare the risk faced by two investors, both of whom own two businesses on a beach. One investor owns a suntan lotion business and a rain umbrella business. The other investor owns two suntan lotion businesses. Explain why a financial advisor might encourage a client to include stocks, bonds, and real estate assets in his or her portfolio.
SS.912.FL.5.7	Describe how financial markets adjust to new financial news and that prices in those markets reflect what is known about those financial assets. Remarks and Examples: Explain how prices of financial investments can adjust when given specific news about a company's or industry's future profitability.
SS.912.FL.5.8	Discuss ways that the prices of financial assets are affected by interest rates and explain that the prices of financial assets are also affected by changes in domestic and international economic conditions, monetary policy, and fiscal policy. Remarks and Examples: Give an example of a change in interest rates affecting the current value of a financial asset that pays returns in the future. Explain why the current value increases when interest rates fall. Explain how a change in economic growth might change the value of a stock held by an investor.
SS.912.FL.5.9	Examine why investors should be aware of tendencies that people have that may result in poor choices, which may include avoiding selling assets at a loss because they weigh losses more than they weigh gains and investing in financial assets with which they are familiar, such as their own employer's stock or domestic rather than international stocks. Remarks and Examples: Explain why investors may sell stocks that have gained in value, but hold ones that have lost value. Explain why this may not make sense. Identify an example of why an investor may have a bias toward familiar investments and why this may or may not be a rational decision.

Standard 6: Protecting and Insuring
BENCHMARK CODE	BENCHMARK
SS.912.FL.6.1	Describe how individuals vary with respect to their willingness to accept risk and why most people are willing to pay a small cost now if it means they can avoid a possible larger loss later. Remarks and Examples: Discuss whether or not a premium paid to insure against an accident that never happens is wasted.
SS.912.FL.6.10	Compare federal and state regulations that provide some remedies and assistance for victims of identity theft. Remarks and Examples: Describe problems that can occur when an individual is a victim of identity theft. Give specific examples of how online transactions, online banking, email scams, and telemarketing calls can make consumers vulnerable to identity theft. Describe the conditions under which individuals should and should not disclose their Social Security number, account numbers, or other sensitive personal information.
SS.912.FL.6.2	Analyze how judgment regarding risky events is subject to errors because people tend to overestimate the probability of infrequent events, often because they've heard of or seen a recent example. Remarks and Examples: Discuss how an extended warranty on a consumer product is like insurance. Evaluate the cost-effectiveness of extended warranties on three

	consumer products: a new automobile, a smart phone, and a dishwasher, considering the likelihood that the product will fail, the cost of replacing the item, and the price of the warranty.
SS.912.FL.6.3	Describe why people choose different amounts of insurance coverage based on their willingness to accept risk, as well as their occupation, lifestyle, age, financial profile, and the price of insurance. Remarks and Examples: Given hypothetical profiles for three types of individuals who differ with respect to occupation, age, lifestyle, marital status, and financial profile, assess the types and levels of personal financial risk faced by each and make recommendations for appropriate insurance.
SS.912.FL.6.4	Explain that people may be required by governments or by certain types of contracts (e.g., home mortgages) to purchase some types of insurance. Remarks and Examples: Explain why homeowners insurance is required by a lender when a homeowner takes out a mortgage. Investigate Florida's regulations regarding the amount of auto insurance that drivers are required to purchase as well as federal health insurance regulations.
SS.912.FL.6.5	Describe how an insurance contract can increase the probability or size of a potential loss because having the insurance results in the person taking more risks, and that policy features such as deductibles and copayments are cost-sharing features that encourage the policyholder to take steps to reduce the potential size of a loss (claim). Remarks and Examples: Given an accident scenario, calculate the amount that would be paid on an insurance claim after applying exclusions and deductibles.
SS.912.FL.6.6	Explain that people can lower insurance premiums by behaving in ways that show they pose a lower risk. Remarks and Examples: Explain why taking a safe-driving course can lower an auto insurance premium and why not smoking can lower the health insurance premium.
SS.912.FL.6.7	Compare the purposes of various types of insurance, including that health insurance provides for funds to pay for health care in the event of illness and may also pay for the cost of preventative care; disability insurance is income insurance that provides funds to replace income lost while an individual is ill or injured and unable to work; property and casualty insurance pays for damage or loss to the insured's property; life insurance benefits are paid to the insured's beneficiaries in the event of the policyholder's death. Remarks and Examples: Compare the coverage and costs of hypothetical plans for a set of scenarios for various types of insurance.
SS.912.FL.6.8	Discuss the fact that, in addition to privately purchased insurance, some government benefit programs provide a social safety net to protect individuals from economic hardship created by unexpected events. Remarks and Examples: Describe examples of government transfer programs that compensate for unexpected losses, including Social Security Disability benefits, Medicare, Medicaid, unemployment insurance, and workers' compensation
SS.912.FL.6.9	Explain that loss of assets, wealth, and future opportunities can occur if an individual's personal information is obtained by others through identity theft and then used fraudulently, and that by managing their personal information and choosing the environment in which it is revealed, individuals can accept, reduce, and insure against the risk of loss due to identity theft. Remarks and Examples: Describe problems that can occur when an individual is a victim of identity theft. Give specific examples of how online transactions, online banking, email scams, and telemarketing calls can make consumers vulnerable to identity theft. Describe the conditions under which individuals should and should not disclose their Social Security number, account numbers, or other sensitive personal information.
